

Photovoltaic energy storage layoffs

According to foreign media reports, Blue Ridge Power, a photovoltaic company headquartered in North Carolina, recently submitted a notice to the local government on the ...

The third round of layoffs was announced in November 2024, when the company shut down its energy storage business and dismissed 500 employees in South Korea. Behind the ...

The initial layoffs include 78 workers in Connecticut and 166 workers in Louisiana, though the company warned that it expects to shut down all operations and terminate all remaining ...

SolarEdge has had roughly three rounds of layoffs since early 2024, including 500 job cuts in November 2024, and 16% staff cuts in January of 2024. In its third quarter ended September 30, ...

Israel-based photovoltaic (PV) inverter and battery supplier SolarEdge Technologies Inc (NASDAQ:SEDG) on Wednesday said it will close its energy storage division, cutting 500 jobs, ...

PosiGen's shutdown affects many states, with offices closing and large-scale layoffs in Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Louisiana, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Mississippi.

Environmental business group E2's latest "Clean Economy Works" analysis reported that as of October 2025, nearly 30,000 jobs that would have been created from new major clean energy ...

As the Senate reconvenes this week and begins budget negotiations, the Solar Energy Industries Association is lobbying to revise the steep Inflation Reduction Act cuts passed by the ...

Pine Gate Renewables, another prominent developer of utility-scale solar and battery storage projects, is rumored to have laid off 15% of its workforce --roughly 50 employees--though ...

The layoffs are among the first in a tide of solar job dislocations that are expected in the wake of the budget bill's final passage early this month. In particular, residential solar businesses are ...

Web: <https://upstreamjhb.co.za>

